

Writing & Movement Workshops

actsofjennius.com • Jennifer Hill

The Aliveness of Language and Place

Discover the imagination, language, and the poetry of place as you walk and reflect, giving your attention to the moment. In this in-person workshop, you'll read poems and prose about your connection to nature and place, and find spots of your own to spend some time in and write.

Shake Up The Snowglobe

Build unique images and connections in this poetry and theatre workshop. Improvisational play with and without language, group games, introspection through map making, and reflection. Best in person, and adaptable for all ages.

Writing Rituals

Create a ritual of daily reading and writing and learn how to cultivate your new writing habits. Online or in-person availability, best suited to those looking to regain focus with their writing, or new writers.

Welcome To Our Table: Food Memoir

Share memories of food and recipes and discover how they open up opportunities for familial storytelling, community connections, and meaning-making. In-person or online availability.

All of Us: Characters Create a Community

Focus on the treasure trove of characters in your own life, and give readers the opportunity to see a community through your perspectives and experiences. Online or in-person availability.

Cheerfool!

Catch the places where ridiculous and sublime meet through playful movement and writing exercises. A celebration of you! Online and in person availability.

Everything Poetry

Observe the delightful ruckus of symbols, metaphors, and imagery in your daily life, and concentrate them into poems. This workshop is adaptable for all levels, in-person or online.

Memory, Identity, and Magical Realism

Welcome the power of intuition and dreams, write from the body, and encourage a separation of the self from the known world and the world of language. A multidisciplinary exploration of the real and imagined. Online and in person availability.